CAMP is excited to announce that we are now accepting applications for the Wendy Robello CAMP Scholarship. Wendy Robello was a CAMP student, mentor, tutor, and research scholar. She was one of very few female aerospace and mechanical engineering students and the first in her family to attend a university. The CAMP program gave Wendy the resources, community, and support which led her to future achievements. Wendy went on to obtain her B.S. in Mechanical Engineering from UC Irvine, an M.S. in Systems Architecture and Engineering at USC, and is now a Sr. Engineering Executive within one of the top Aerospace and Defense companies. The fellowship supports four (4) freshmen/sophomore and two (2) junior/senior promising CAMP students with $500.00 over the winter quarter. Students that are CAMP eligible are encouraged to apply for this opportunity. The Wendy Robello CAMP Scholarship application must be submitted on, or before, the deadline in order to be considered.

The deadline to submit application is October 15, 2021. For more information about the California Alliance for Minority Participation program, please visit our website at www.camp.uci.edu. If you have specific questions regarding the scholarship, please contact lsamp@uci.edu.
